

Case Study: Cubic

Cubic Head of Human Resources champions Carbon360

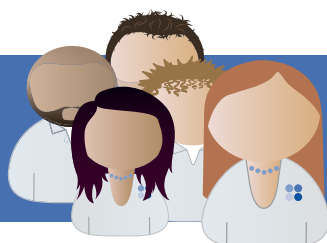

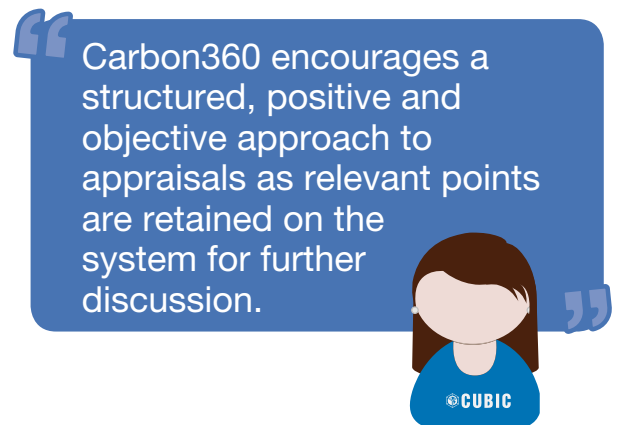

Well established transportation-systems company, and creators of London's Oyster card system, Cubic discovered Carbon360 at a HR Software show, and after we showed them what we could do they asked the Carbon360 team to initially train 160 staff to use the system. Liz Newman, Head of Human Resources for Cubic wanted to move from the paper based system they previously had in place to a more flexible, automated online solution.

“we could immediately see how user friendly and adaptable the tool was...”

Liz explained “From the demo of Carbon360 at the HR Software Show, we could immediately see how user friendly and adaptable the tool was. As soon as we rolled out our first reviews we started experiencing the benefits. It's so easy to tailor Carbon360 to suit our needs, and it's flexibility means users can add free text comments, which leads to much more in depth, applicable feedback”.

Cubic also found Carbon360's historical reporting capabilities to be of huge benefit. They told the team that using Carbon360 benefits both the reviewer, and those being reviewed, and even from the first phase of roll out they received really positive feedback.
